Regulatory Information and warning

Before making a decision to purchase Qoin, you should be aware that the Services provided by Qoin Global Limited (“Qoin UK”) are unregulated and therefore not governed by the Financial Conduct Authority (“FCA”). Cryptocurrencies or Digital Currencies are not regulated by the FCA or any other regulator in the UK. This means the Qoin you hold in your Q Wallet is not regulated. This also means the Financial Ombudsman Service and the Financial Services Compensation Scheme do not apply.

The purchase of Qoin does not grant a buyer a share of any profits earned by Qoin UK or any decision-making powers in relation to the operation of Qoin. Qoin is not a security and does not promise any returns including interest, dividends, or equity participation. Nothing in the sales presentation, marketing collateral; or any other type of document relating to Qoin should be construed as investment, trading, business, legal, tax or financial advice. Past performance is not indicative of future performance.

Cryptocurrencies and/or Digital Currencies are speculative instruments and involve a substantial degree of personal risk for those whom hold them. The value of Cryptocurrencies and/or Digital Currencies can quickly increase or decrease at any time. This means there could be a complete loss of capital with no legal recourse. There can be no assurance that Cryptocurrencies and/or Digital Currencies, or any other digital asset is or will be viable, liquid or solvent.

Before buying Cryptocurrencies and/or Digital Currencies you should carefully consider your personal situation and the financial risks you are willing to take. You may want to speak to an independent financial adviser.

The FCA has published information for consumers regarding the regulation and risks of cryptocurrencies which You may find helpful. It can be viewed here: <https://www.fca.org.uk/consumers/cryptoassets>
